NOTES AND COMMENT ON THE LEGISLATURE

The adjournment committee of the House of which Mr. Fletcher of Cavendish in chairman presented a resolution yesterday calling for final adjournment on Saturday. It was adopted on the part of the House and immediately laid upon the table in the Senate, which goes to show that the feeling between the two bodies is not just the best with which to make a grand rapid transit finish of bills held up by disagreement. However, 'twas ever thus. One body or the other would get its back up over proposed amendments and never show signs of caving in until within a few hours of final adjournment.

The judiciary committee of both branches have come together on a trustee process bill which will receive an unanimous report. It will be remembered that the bill exempting $10 in wages from trustee process was passed by the House and killed in the Senate. Then two other bills were introduced in the Senate one exempting two thirds of the wages and the other making the matter of payment discretionary with the court. Now a compromise bill has been agreed upon which exempts at least $5 and as much more as the court may see fit to hold back for the necessities of life.

Rutland, Jan. 20.—B. L. Bump, the Clarendon farmer who is charged with selling watered milk, is sick in bed and may not be arraigned in court for several days. It is understood that he will plead guilty and pay a fine. State's Attorney J. C. Jones took up the case on complaint of the dairy company and Dr. C. F. ### BARRE DAILY TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Barre as Second Class Matter.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1909.

They are now saying that Congressman Willett was a Roosevelt ally in disguise.

The rim of land which borders the Mediterranean and its contiguous bodies of water is not the safest place just now, with all the convulsions of nature occurring just beneath it.

Governor Patterson of Tennessee prohibits prohibition. Now listen!

There ought to be more than twenty-six tenement houses erected in Barre the coming season.

Perhaps Congress thinks it must have a salary commensurate with the size of the next executive.

DON'T DO IT!

Disregarding for the nonce the question whether the services of our legislators are worth three dollars or four dollars per day, we should like to suggest that it would appear in better taste for the men assembled at Montpelier not to place a valuation on their own services to the state of Vermont. They may or may not be worth the increase; that is something to be determined. But the fact remains that they were hired for three dollars per diem, and it would appear exceedingly greedy, not to say silly, for them to add at this late day of the session one dollar or even one cent to the schedule under which they started out to work.

CONSISTENT PROGRESS IN BARRE MUNICIPAL LIFE.

The perusal of such a document as that presented by Mayor Robins in his annual message to-day is something more than a duty; it is a pleasure, because of the satisfactory conditions therein set forth. All things considered—business depression throughout the country and conditions affecting the granite industry of the city during the early months of the year—we doubt if there has ever been more consistent progress made in municipal administration in Barre. There have been no extraordinary expenditures required, or even needed, so that the city has been enabled to expend the most of its money in continuing the work which had been mapped out during previous years; and at this time we find the city in better shape, both as regards its financial status and its material welfare, as expressed in improvements, than it was at the opening of Mayor Robins's most recent term of office.

That portion of the message which refers to the finances of the municipality will be particularly interesting to the tax-payers of Barre, not so much perhaps for what has been done, as for what it is intended to do. Chief and foremost is the statement that within the next year we shall be able to wipe out approximately 40 per cent. of the entire debt of the municipality, not counting in the water system obligations. This liquidation will retire nearly one-half the bonded indebtedness and it will be made possible without the raising of a special tax, according to the estimate at the present time. The next heavy installment of bonds to be retired will not come until five years from now, when the city will be called upon to meet an issue of $57,500, but by that time the sinking fund should have accumulated to such an extent as to meet the demand without extra taxation. At the same time, the water department is whittling down its obligations each year. Therefore, in reviewing the year just past, the people of Barre have reason to feel satisfaction and to look hopefully toward what the coming years have in store for their city.
